The Plains-A Prophecy. [BE TOYGELN MITTER!] Go ye and look upon that land, That for vast land that few behold, And none beholding understand-That old, old land which men call new-Go journey with the seasons through Its wastes, and learn how limitless. The solemn silence of that plain In oh! so eloquent. The bige And hended skies seem built for it, And all clse seems a yesterday, An idle tale but lily told. Its story is of God alone, For man has lived and gone away And left but little heaps of stone. Lo ! here you learn how more than fit And dignified in silence when You hear the petty jeers of men. Its awfai solitudes remain Thenceforth for aye a part of you,

And you have learned your littleness. Some allent red men cross your track; Some sun-tanned trappers come and go; Come rolling seas of buffalo Break thunder-like and far away Against the foot-hills, breaking back Like breakers of some troubled bay; Some white-tailed antelope blown by So alry likes some fores shy And shadow-like move to and fro-Like weavers' shuttles as you pass; And now and then from out the grass You hear some lone bird cluck, and call A shurp, keen call for her lost brood, That only makes the solitude Seem deeper still, and that is all. That wide domain of mysteries And signs that men misunderstand;

And lonely wells and pools; a land That hath its purposes and plans, That seem so like dead Palestine, Save that its wastes have no confine Ent pushed against the level skies; A land from out whose depths shall rise The new-time prophets; the domain From our whose awful depths shall come, All clad in skins, with dusty feet, A man fresh from his Maker's band A singer singing oversweet, A charmer charming very wise, Nay, not be dumb, for he shall say, "Take heed, for I prepare the way For weary feet;" and from this land The Christ shall come when next the race Of man shall look upon his face.

A land of space and dreams; a land

Of sea-sult lakes and dried-up seas;

A land of caves and caravans

VARIETY. The family jar is often the child of the family

No young man is proof against a gumdrop when she holds it between her teeth and invites him to take a drop.

A Brooklyn girl, who has been reading somebody's "statement," went into a dry goods store, recently, and asked for a yard of "impure lace." Nor so Much.-A man in Cincinnati advertising for a situation, says: "Work is not so much an object as good wages."

One of the most cheering sights and one which tells of the straddled panic, and the return of good times, is the fact that a stranger can display a fifty cent stamp in St. Louis, and not be hauled out of the river next morning. Some Anger .- A writer who spoke of "buttered thunder," and was asked by another if that had any affinity to "greased lightning," manifested some anger in explaining that " muttered

Death is a sad thing," remarked a Schenec-tady woman, as she stood beside an open grave. "Yes, poor thing," replied another, "how he did like to sit down to a good bailed dinner where the pork was just right!

PROBABLY .- A Boston till-tapper recently purchased a half-gailon of molasses at a grocery, and, in default of a jug, got the grocer to pour it into his hat, which was no sooner done than he clapped the hat over the grocer's head, and, while the latter was spluttering through the flood of syrup, deliberately robbed the drawer and decamped. Experience is a harsh teacher, but an infallible one; and that grocer has probably now learned the meaning of the proverb: "Sweet are the uses of adversity."

Hog Gusseng.-The following advertisement appeared in the Jamaica, N. Y., Sentinel, recently: "Hog Guessing.-Mr. T. O'Brien, of the Union Hotel, in this village, announces that, on Thursday, December 4th, 1873, at 2 P. M., he will kill the finest and fattest hog ever slaughtered in Queen's county, which will then be guessed for. The animal is supposed to weigh eight hundred pounds. Chances, fifty cents. The nearest guess will take the hog; the next, the overplus

Scouping .- A trial that will be watched with great interest by henpecked husbands is soon to take place at Baltimore. A woman of that city has been arrested on the charge of being a common scold. The laws of Maryland make no provision for the punishment of such an offence, and she is to be tried under the old English common law. This defines such an offence as common barratry, and provides, as one of the means of punishment, "boring a hole through the tongue."

Another clever gentleman has been deceived by the hydrants. It was New Year's and he was rejoicing under the influence of about 1,000 drops of joy. He ran against a hydrant, while homeward bound, working long longitudes. He hap-pened to mistake the hydrant for a colored boy, a Skuse me, sonnie," said he, patting the hydrant paternally. "Didn't run you down because you was black. Grow up (hic) and be a useful man (hic). Imitate (hic) my example!" And here he laid a quarter on its nozzle and went on with a lighter heart and the satisfaction that he had made one poor soul happy.

Some time ago Captain Goodall and Dr. O'Farrell, both of Goodall, Nelson and Perkins' Steamship Line, spent a few days admiring the beauties of Los Angeles. One Sunday morning the Doctor seated himself on a boot-black stand for the purpose of having his calf-skins polished. The work was well and speedily done, and the Doctor handed the "intelligent contraband" two bits, which he slipped into the seat pocket of his pants. After a while the Doctor inquired, kind o' careless like, about his change. "Nuthin' cummin', sah. It's Sunday, sah, and I charge one bit for de shinin. o'your boots, and one bit for desecration de Lord's day, sah." Dr. O'Farrell saw the point but never saw the change. The Chenango, N. Y., Democrat tells of an Ellington man who, while he was in a trance. thought that he had died, and found himself at a gate guarded by two angles, but that they allowed him to pass. He entered a room which was surrounded by doors. Here he met a sisters who had died on the preceiing May, and she was accompanied by two beautiful girls, to whom she presented him, telling him they were his sisters who had died before his remembrance, and had grown up in that beautiful place. They sang him a song, and with some difficulty taught it to him. He recalls distinctly the tune and words, and sings them now, though neither he nor any of the family ever heard the words before. He also saw his brother-in-law there. As he did not see his mother-in-law, he thinks that he must sortment of numbers, for sale low by
